Our Policies on Modern Slavery and Forced Labor

We are committed to ensuring there is no modern slavery or forced labor in our supply chains or in any part of our business. Our Modern Slavery and Forced Labor Policy reflects our commitment to acting ethically and with integrity in all of our business relationships. We are further committed to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure slavery and forced labor is not taking place anywhere in our supply chains.

Our HR and procurement functions work together to ensure our relevant group policies are complied with across our business and to manage any concerns that may arise from time to time. We have a clear Whistle Blower Rights policy which is published on our AIT Resource Center and all employees are encouraged to raise any concerns with their manager or a member of the AIT HR Department or the AIT Global Compliance Director.

Due Diligence Processes for Modern Slavery and Forced Labor

As part of our initiative to identify and mitigate risk, we are monitoring ethical standards across the AIT organization. We continue to review our AIT policies and supplier due diligence documentation in relation to slavery and forced labor within our supply chain.

AIT is working toward all business areas ensuring that proportionate risk assessments are conducted for relevant activities and ensuring that appropriate policies, communication, training, and review procedures are implemented are required.

We are working with all of our businesses to develop a consistent and proportionate approach with respect to risk assessments in international and high risk markets.

Supplier Adherence to our Values and Ethics

We have a zero tolerance approach to slavery and forced labor. All of our suppliers are expected to comply with all local and national laws and regulations. We operate a supply chain compliance program which includes pre-contractual due diligence enquiries and ongoing monitoring throughout the duration of our relationship with that supplier. Additionally, we have established an AIT Partner Code of Conduct, which outlines our expectations from our suppliers and partners in human rights, ethical practices, and document retention, and which is provided to every supplier prior to the beginning of our business relationship.
